in the hood

A VENTILATION HOOD for your range or cooktop need not steal the spotlight to be a showstopper. These two understated yet multitasking models prove that sometimes what goes on behind the scenes is as impressive as what's on display.

HIDE AND SEEK

This hood insert disappears within your choice of surround, such as this one faced with decorative glass tiles. Made in 30-, 36-, and 48-inch models, the hood features a single blower capable of handling smoke and oiling fumes created by high-performance cooktops and ranges. The control panel can be mounted on a wall or countertop or on the unit itself.

STYLISH STORAGE

The sleek design of this stainless-steel hood—part of the Cheng collection—gracefully hides its secondary job as a storage compartment for herbs, spices, and other culinary fare. Designed to fit under cabinets, it also features a utensil rail along the front.
